to Lead Steven A. Cohen Military Family Clinic at CU Anschutz

GREENWOOD VILLAGE, CO — The Steven A. Cohen Military Family Clinic at University of Colorado Anschutz Medical Campus announces that U.S. Marine Corps veteran Kammy Bishop, LPC, CAC II is appointed as the new clinic director. Bishop will oversee all clinical operations at the clinic and is excited to continue to serve Colorado’s post-9/11 veterans and their families with much needed mental health care.

“It is an honor to continue the promise of Steven A. Cohen to help as many veterans and military families as possible access high quality mental health care,” said Bishop. “I am whole heartedly committed to our mission to save lives, save families and save futures, as well as lead an amazing staff who are making a difference in the lives of Colorado’s military families every day.”

Uniquely qualified for the role, Bishop previously served as the clinic’s assistant director for the past seven months. Bishop has extensive experience managing operations, providing clinical care and case management in various mental health and substance use treatment facilities. A proud U.S. Marine Corps veteran, Bishop served as a non-commissioned officer and Military Police Officer. During her time in Marine Corps, Bishop earned the honor of representing the U.S. Armed Forces at the Women’s National Basketball Tournament, after being selected to the All-Marine Corps and All-Armed Forces Basketball Teams.

“We are very fortunate to have someone of Kammy’s caliber and expertise to lead the Cohen Clinic in Denver. She served on active duty with the Marine Corps, and as a civilian, has a proven record of providing high quality mental health services,” said Matt Mishkind, Ph.D., executive director of operations. “Her dedication to Colorado’s military community is inspiring and her leadership comes at a critical moment as the clinic continues to expand access to care to rural and underserved communities through our telehealth program, as well as provide quality care in-person at our clinic in Greenwood Village.”
